

It is an undeniable fact that, (do not put a comma after that; that is a conjunction; you can't have a comma after it) some of the societies people (write: people) are deprived from (write: of) their basic needs while it is essential for a citizen to fulfill their fundamental needs from their income confirmed by well established democratic society.

Remarks

Please do not write extremely long sentences like these. You will not get them right. So what is the point? Write shorter sentences. They will improve your chances of getting band 7.

You may write:

It is undeniable that many people are denied their basic needs and rights. This is sad because in a democratic society everyone should be able to earn enough to meet their basic needs.

To begin with, everyone will agree that, (remove this comma) sometimes people are not getting their proper rights what they suppose to be from the society .

Remarks

The above can be written as:

To begin with, everyone will agree that many people are not getting what they should get from the society.

For instance, one of my relative is not getting the health related benefit from the government as (write: though) he has some uncommon disease which needs enormous amount of money. Thus, some of the society is not taking care of the citizens what they deserve as a democratic social member.

Remarks

The above can be written as:

Thus many societies are not taking care of the rights their citizens have as members of a democratic country.

Another very pivotal factor is proper standard education (write: the access to higher education). Most (write: in most) of the south Asian countries, not all intermediate students are getting the chance for the tertiary educational facilities provided by the government.

Remarks

The above can be written as:

In most of the South Asian countries, not all students get an opportunity to enjoy the tertiary educational facilities provided by their government.

To illustrate, a statistical survey by Asian times (write: Times; always capitalize names) published in 2016 confirmed that, only 5% students (write: of the students) are getting subsidies for higher education which is the very basic rights of any democratic society.

Moreover, it is so unfortunate that, (remove this comma) some people are even deprived of minimum foods what (you are using 'what' unnecessarily; remove it) they need in this age of era.

Remarks

The above can be written as:

Moreover, it is so unfortunate that some people are even deprived of the basic nutrition they need.

for (write: For) example, one of my neighbor suddenly lost his job and do not have the minimum amount of money to survive, while (write: and) he is not getting any benefit from the society to recover his severe problem. Therefore, a democratic society suppose (write: is supposed) to help each and every citizen depends (write: depending) upon their situation to make a healthy democratic society.

Remarks

The above can be written as:

Therefore, a society is supposed to help each and every citizen depending upon their situation to be a healthy democracy.

In conclusion, it can be conclude (write: concluded) that, although there is a lots (write: are lots of / are a lot of) of inevitable unfortunate factor (write: factors; write a plural noun after lot of / lots of) for the system people are in a society, a citizen deserve the minimum fundamental needs as a social member.
