

There is a variation in opinion regarding success and joining university.

Remarks

You may write something like:

People have different opinions regarding the importance of university education in achieving success.

While some argues (write: argue; use a plural verb after some) that to be a successful candidate studying in college is essential, while (remove this; you already used while) others believe it is not so prudent (write: necessary).

Remarks

Going to university is always a prudent decision.

Use just one conjunction to connect two clauses.

While some argue that to be a successful candidate studying in college is essential, others believe that it is not so necessary.

This essay will discuss merits (write: the merits) of both these arguments and I feel, (write: prove that) whether an institution (write: university education) is needed or not for being successful is based upon an individual personality. (write: depends upon the personality of the student / individual)

Remarks

In the introduction just rewrite the given question in your own words. Here you can write:

According to some people, getting a university degree is the surefire way to become successful in life. Others, however, insist that it is not necessary to go to university. In my opinion, education will certainly make it easier to achieve success, but it is not a prerequisite.

The first reason for considering an university (write: university education) to be essential is because (Write: that; write that after reason) it provides a teacher. Pupils often need a mentor to achieve success and universities provides (write: provide; university is a plural noun so write provide) them in the form of teachers. Moreover, teachers not only guides (write: guide; the subject is the plural noun teacher, so write guide) them with subjects but they also helps students sculpture (write: help them find) their way towards success. Next, in university students get the opportunity to mingle with others and get to know about different kinds of people, which inturn (write: in turn) will aid them when they face the real outside world. University education is essential for those who needs (write: need) help in achieving success.

On the other hand, almost all information are (write: is; information is singular so write is) available on the internet and there is no need for an university to reach (write: for a university) degree to achieve) success. Recent advancement in technology had made it possible for everyone to access information. For (remove this) someone aching to be successful can refer all the articles and methods from the internet. Additionally, it is possible for him/ her to do it from the comfort of home and they need not spend multiple years in universities to become successful. This method of reaching (write: achieving) success is helpful for people who can do their own things without the help of others.

In conclusion, unversity provides teachers who will guide a student towards success. However, learning by self to achieve success is not a mistake by any mean (write: means). I believe those who needs (write: need; here the subject is the plural expression those) help in reaching success can rely on university while others need not.
